The Sentinel for 1803!

THE governmental and political questions of the coming year will have an absorbing interest for every citizen. We are engaged in a gigantic civil war, the result of which none can foresee. It torestens a radica change in the institutions and principles upon which the Government was founded, and the destruction of the liberty and rights of the citizen, such as the people of no other nation have enjoyed, and t weich may be attributed our unequaled progress in nat smal prosperity and greatness. The issue will soon be upon us, whether this free tiovernment shall be preserved and maintained and the rights of the States under the Constitution perpetuated, or a powerful central authority be permitted to grow out of this war, obliterating State lines, State institutions, and all these checks upon the Federal Government, rights reserved by the States, which have constituted the excellence and supe riority of our nationality-States "one as the sea" for the common objects set forth in the Constitution, but "distinct as the billows" in the management of their purely done ic affairs. These questions were involved in the recem elections, and the voice of the people was most emphatically expressed for the "Constitution as it is and the Union as i was." Never was there a time when it was so important that the people should be theroughly advised as to the progress and condition of public affairs an lof passing events. A people are not fit for

STATUTES OF INDIANA.

GAVIN & HORD'S REVISION. The second volume of Mesers Gavin & Hord's compilerion of Indiana Statutes has just appeared. This volume completes their work. Its mechanical execution is ver preditable; and the skill, learning, and labor which the editors have testowed on it, merit the highest praise. None but learned, diligent lawyers could have produced

The second volume embraces all the public statutes of indiana now in force upon the subjects to which it relates, and the first all excepting the acts of the last regular and extra sessions of the Legislature. It is a great excellence of the compilation that all existing statutes on each subject are collected together in the same place in these volumes; so that the reader can see at a glance all the legislation in force on any given subject. Take, for example, the act of 1852, organizing Courts of Common Pleas-the editors publish the act at large, and they also prist, in the form of notes on the same pages containing this statute, all the acts amendatory to it which have been passed up to this time. And so they have done of all the other acts contained in the revision of 1852.

The editors have added much to the value of these volumes-especially the last-by the copious and learned notes with which the volumes abound. These notes indicate much labor an legal acumen. They furnish us, in a concise and accurate form, with all the adindications of our Supreme Court on these statutes. These adjudicaself-government unless with an intelligent judgment they tions being now very numerous, the references to them decide upon the questions which affect alike their own in the volumes under consideration, will be of great value to the lawyer, and indeed to all persons concerned in the administration of justice. The editors have also referred, Will soon assemble, and the most important questions in their notes, to numerous decisions in other States,
